

I don't feel that the FCC should enact any law preempting the current Indiana "no call" law. I am no longer interrupted during supper, kid's bath time, and while I'm trying to sleep with calls that were neither solicited by me or desired. I was able to disconnect my caller ID service because I don't have to screen my calls any longer. This law has also been a god-send for my aging parents. Please enforce Indiana's "no call" law.
